

Zedua Experiments

Title: Practise writing stories

This activity helps the children build up stories by writing part of the story and then passing it on.

Materials Required:

1. Pieces of paper.

Procedure:

1. Distribute a blank piece of paper for every child.

2. Ask the children to write their name on the top of the page. Then they should write the first line of a fairy tale at the beginning of the page. Ask the children to be creative and come up with a new story of their own.

After a minute, ask the children to stop writing and to pass the story to the person on their right. They cannot finish the sentence they are writing! The next child continues the story until the next minute is up and the children pass to the right again.

3. Continue for about 10 minutes.

4. The children give the fairy tales back to the author of the first line. The children read the stories and can take it in turns to read them out to the rest of the class.

Notes

This is quite a challenging task for low level learners. You may need to help them to write what they want to say.

No resources?

If you do not have enough pieces of paper for each child for the first activity, you can do it in groups. You can build the story up orally and ask each child to add a sentence in turn. After few turns, ask all the children to write what they remember in their workbooks and to add an ending to the story.
